Select Miscellany.

BERTIE'S ANGER.

"Bertie, dear Bertie, will you not say good night to me?" pleaded the sweet voice of Minnie Hamilton.

"No!" he replied, angrily pushing her away from him.

"Come now, Bertie, do forgive me, and let us kiss and be friends; will you not, Bertie, dear?"

He answered her not, but only looked sulkily out of the window. Minnie's blue eyes filled with tears.

"You know I did not spoil your kite on purpose, dear brother," she said.

"But it is my bed time and if you will not forgive me I must pray to God," and the child left the room.

Five minutes after she was kneeling in her own little chamber and pleading at the throne of grace on her brother's behalf. Her prayer was simple, but the Good Shepherd did not despise even this little one of his flock.

"Dear, kind Savior," she pleaded, in earnest childlike accents, "do please make dear Bertie forgive me. I am so sorry that I made him angry, but I did not mean to do so. Pour into his heart thy Holy Spirit, and let him love me again: and may he grow up a great and good man, and be a comfort to his dear mama! Dear Jesus, please hear me, though I am a wicked, sinful child, and make us live very happily together on on earth; and when thou seest fit grant, most Gracious God, that we may meet at thy great white throne, where all is peace and love, and join dear papa in singing glory, glory, glory!"

And then the little one, after commending herself to her Heavenly Father's keeping, lay down to rest. The moon shone in at the window, and revealed the lovely child as she tranquilly slept.—One little arm was thrown carelessly on the snowey counterpane, with which it vied for whiteness, while the long golden hair was tossed back from the pale brow. The soft silky eyelashes shaded dimpled cheeks, on which the roseate hue of sleep rested. A beautiful revalation from the home of light the slumbering child appeared. Her little hands clasped tightly a small text book, and ever and anon a sweet smile parted her cherub lips.

The sun shone brightly the next morning; flowers of a thousand varied hues yielded their delicious perfumes, each one a reminder in itself of the great and glorious Giver of all good things. Bertie who had passed a restless and sleepless night, arose early with a determination of seeking his little sister and asking her pardon.

Hastily he dressed himself and hurried down stairs. The breakfast was still untouched, and neither Mr. Hamilton nor Minnie was there.

"Perhaps my sister is in the school-room," he said to himself; "I will go and see."

when he met his mother, weeping bitterly. She heeded hot her child's inquiry of what was the matter. "Where is Minnie?" at length Bertie asked anxiously. Mrs. Hamilton surpressed her grief, and holding out her hand, said very sadly, "Come and see."

Tremblingly Bertie followed his mother. A feeling of dread and awe crept over him, he scarcely knew wherefore.—Mrs. Hamilton stopped at Minnie's door, and gently opened it. O, what a picture was revealed to Bertie's gaze! There, indeed, lay his sister but how? Asleep? Ah, more than that, for she would never awake again—never ask in imploring accents, "Won't you say good night, dear Bertie?"

The flush that in sleep had looked so lovely, was now gone, and her features, though beautiful in death, were pale as marble. The pretty flower had been culled ere midday had scorched it. No more would storms mar its loveliness: transplanted to a brighter and happier land it reared its head where it should never fade, or droop, or die.

"O, mamma, mamma!" cried Bertie, in a tone of anguish, "will she never speak to me again? Shall I never, never see her more?"

"I trust so, my boy,. Dear Minnie is only gone before, will you not try to walk in her footsteps? Then, my child, you will meet her again—in that place where parting is no more."

"O, I can never go to her, mama; I am a naughty, wicked, selfish boy, and she was so good and gentle, mama, I would not say good night to her last evening," and Bertie hid his face on Mrs. Hamilton's shoulder and wept convulsively.

"Hush, hush, dear Bertie, and tell me what you mean."

Amid suffocating sobs the little boy told his mother how he had been playing with his sister the previous evening, and accidentally Minnie had stepped on his kite and broken it.

"And O, mamma," he said in conclusion, "I was in such a passion that I would not forgive her, though she begged so hard. I little thought when she left the room I should never see her alive again. Minnie, dear Minnie!" and again the child's grief became uncontrollable.

Mrs. Hamilton was scarcely less affected than her boy; but in a few minutes she said gently, "Shall we pray, dear Bertie, that od will Genable you for the future to strive to govern your temper."

And there, by the loved one's side, they kneeled—the mother and her boy. Bertie never forgot his sister, and long after he usad to look back on that hour as the one in which he first really prayed to conquer his evil passions.

Minnie's prayer was answered, for Bertie lived to grow up "a great and good man," but the remembrance of his last words to his little sister never ceased to bring with it a pang of reproach. O, that you, dear children, would strive daily and pray most earnestly to govern your tempers! One unkind word may be a source of lasting grief to you; one cruel blow the sorrow of a lifetime.—Ask God, then, to help you by his Holy Spirit to love one another. Then, when he shall call you to your eternal home, Jesus shall carry you in his bosom, and you shall unite with the little lambs of his fold in praising and loving God forever.

Configuration of the Earth's Surface.

The surface of the earth presents to the eye of a careless examiner a very irregular assemblage of depressions and elevations. The most considerable depressions are filled by a vast body of water, constituting the oceans and seas, bearing a proportion to the masses of land of about three to one. Irregular as the surface of the land may at first appear to be, an attentive study of its general appearance cannot fail to show a certain symmetry and an orderly dependence of one physical feature upon another, and of the whole upon some grand early movement or movements of nature on a vast scale, which, by raising the crust of the earth in some parts far above plains, into a cool and cloudy region, has created the sources of the streams and commanded their direction, determined the modifications of climate, and thus directed the history of the human race. Somewhere or other in each continent or island will be found a certain series of chains or heights, on each side of which the land slopes, on the whole, gradually to the sea. This is the great water-parting of the continent. From the main ridge on either side run others smaller and tributary to it, these in their turn having their tributary ridges, until at last the level of the ocean is reached, and the conformation of the earth is hidden by the waves. Issuing from the chief heights and running down the main valley are the chief rivers, fed by smaller rivers, descending from the tributary crests, these in their turn being supplied by small streams that slide down from the lower ridges. In the course of time the waters flowing from the hills have cut themselves beds, even from the solid rocks; sometimes they have changed their direction, but always, and speaking generally, the mountains have formed the rivers, and sent down by their means rich soil, to be deposited in the valleys and form a sea of verdure. Along the valleys are to be found the most fertile fields. Commerce first followed the direction of the rivers, because upon them the cargoes of the merchant could be most easily transported. Towns grew up and roads were made to connect them. As mankind multiplied, the surface of the earth was more densely covered by their cities and villages. Short cuts were made across the angles of the old roads, and finally continents have become more or less entangled in a network of roads, railways, and telegraphs. To the intelligent study of physical geography and the history of mankind, there is, however, no more confusion than is to be found in a honeycomb or a spider's web. The whole, if complicated, follows certain laws, and depends upon the original elevations of the land and the effect of climate upon human necessities.—London Times.

The Young Men of Means.

I arrived in New York a few days ago, and immediately took rooms at the to have the best of everything, even if I am obliged to get trusted for it. I hadn't been at the Astor but one day when the clerk brought me my bill.

"Is it customary," said I, "to pay by the day?"

"It is with men of your stamp," he replied.

"What kind of a stamp do you take me for?" said I.

"You look like a two cent stamp," he replied, very insulting. "You either pay this bill or get out. Have you got any money?" said he.

"My estimable young friend," I replied, "you have probably heard of Ben Franklin, long deceased. That eminent physician was at one time in the proverb line, and did a very good business. He said, among other things, that time is money. Now, I haven't got any money, but as regards time, I am in affluent circumstances, and if you will receipt that bill, I will give you a check for as much time as you think equivalent, and throw you in a couple of hours for your trouble.

He made no reply, but from the fact of the porter's coming up immediately after, removing my trunk to the sidewalk, and hustled me out after it, I inferred that I wasn't considered a financial success.

I immediately called a hackman, and told him to take me to a cheep but respectable hotel. "And the cheaper it is," I added, "the more respectable I shall consider it."

He drove me to the Excelsior House and I told him I was under a great obligations to him, and if at any time I could do him a favor, I should feel grieved if he didn't speak to me about it, for my proud spirit spurns an obligation.

"If you don't fork over them fifty cents said he, "there'll be a funeral in your family, and it won't be your wife, nor none of your children."

"But I'm busted," said I. "If meeting houses were selling two for a cent, I could not buy even the handle of a contribution box."

He swore at me awfully, and said he would have it out of my trunk, so he burst it open.

But the contents of that trunk are far from valuable, for I carry it filled with sawdust. It looks just as respectable, and is an emergency

SELECT FAMILY PAPER.

We have an unusually interesting account of the latest efforts of the French to break through the line of the Germans and relieve the city of Paris, with most important conclusions, they appear to us, to be drawn therefrom. The paris garrison marched across the Marne, and then marched back again. The Loire army advanced to Pithiviers. Today to the neighborhood of Toury, to the east of Etampes, have been put forth to raise the siege of Paris. Have only been heard of the attack upon which they were misinformed.

The first attempt to break away from Paris was made on an early hour on Tuesday, Nov. 29. A item from Fort Mont Du Valerien forwards the west, and Meudy, where large numbers of the Germans were encamped, but after a severe contest in which both sides fought with great bravery, the French were driven back in confusion to the south of the Seine having been sadly beaten. The Germans then advanced to the south was abandoned. The movements of the army of the Loire were somewhat mysterious. They had to have resulted in nowhere at several places, which we have been unable to decode under the impression that the army was moving on Paris, but the latest advices warn that the concentrated between Blois and Tours, which would indicate that its advance was not in the direction of Paris.

The operations of the last few days, as now reported, reveal more clearly than ever the hopeless condition of the French. After two and a half months of preparation and effort the Parisians could do nothing more than drive the inferior forces, in unsuccessful attempts to break through the lines of the besiegers. Their efforts in this respect have been feeble in the extreme. It is evident that the great decisive struggle is now going on, and it will be some time before we receive the correct results.

ART COLLEGE.—The Literary and social entertainment, given by the Cresson Literary Society, at the Agricultural College, was a great success. The Society, which is composed of young men, was organized for the purpose of improving themselves in composition and oratory, and has been in existence for about two years. The object of the institution, to secure practical knowledge and education to its students, is worthy of the highest praise. The Society, for the present, exhibits a healthy growth, and promises to become a permanent institution. The literary exercises were held in the College Chapel. The room was crowded with visitors, and reflected much credit on the Society. The literary exercises were followed by the reception of visitors, which was a most pleasant affair. The Faculty and students vied with each other in their efforts to entertain their guests. The refreshments were provided in a manner that showed the good will of the students. Dancing, with all the existing and fashionable accomplishments, was indulged in by the young people, and the time was spent in the most pleasant manner. To-day the students are busily engaged in preparing for the Christmas holidays, which they will spend with their friends. We are glad to see that the College is in a flourishing condition, and that the students are making such rapid progress in their studies. We are afraid that we will be compelled to go to Harrisburg.

Mr. Editor:—Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the Democratic meeting held in Bedford on Saturday last. I was present, and was very much surprised at the manner in which the meeting was conducted. Instead of the meeting being conducted by the Democratic party, it was conducted by the Democratic party, it was conducted by the Democratic party, it was

MORE ABOUT HOGS.—A few days since we visited the farmer E.C. Himmes south east of town. Mr. Himmes is one of the most successful farmers in this section of country, and soon it will be, all over, like a farm, and with the facilities for raising hogs that he has, in speaking of the many difficulties in the way of publishing a newspaper in inland cities, says that as a general thing he finds that a good deal of his profits are invested in hogs. His method of feeding is to feed regularly three times a day, and to have a variety of food. He has a large number of hogs on hand, and will have a large number to sell in the spring. He has a fine lot of shoats, which he is feeding for the spring market. He has a large number of brood sows, and has been very successful in raising pigs. The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now complete connections made.
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedy and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of Spring and Summer clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

MANHOOD

In the Young and Rising Generation-

The vegetative powers of life are strong, but in a few years how often the pallid hue, the lackluster eye and emaciated form, and the impossibility of application to mental effort, show its baneful influence. It soon becomes evident to the observer that some depressing influence is checking the development of the body. Consumption is talked of, and perhaps the youth is removed from school and sent into the country. This is one of the worst movements. Removed from ordinary diversions of the ever-changing scenes of the city, the powers of the body, too much enfeebled to give zest to healthful and rural exercise, thoughts are turned inwards upon themselves.

If the patient be a female, the approach of the menses is looked for with anxiety, as the first symptom in which Nature is to show her saving power in diffusing the circulation and visiting the cheek with the bloom of health. Alas! increase of appetite has grown by what it fed on; the energies of the system are prostrated, and the whole economy is deranged. The beautiful and wonderful period in which body and mind undergo so fascinating a change from child to woman, is looked for in vain. The parent's heart bleeds in anxiety, and fancies the grave but waiting for its victim.

During the Superintendence of Dr. Wilson at the Bloomingdale Asylum, this sad result occurred to two patients; reason had for a time left them, and both died of epilepsy. They were of both sexes, and about twenty years of age.

Who can say that these excesses are not frequently followed by those direful diseases Insanity and Consumption! The records of the Insane Asylums, and the melancholy deaths by Consumption, bear ample witness to the truth of these assertions. In Lunatic Asylums the most melancholy exhibition appears. The countenance is actually sodden and quite destitute—neither Mirth or Grief ever visits it. Should a sound of the voice occur, it is rarely articulate.

"With woeful measures wan Despair
Low sullen sounds their grief beguiled."

Whilst we regret the existence of the above diseases and symptoms, we are prepared to offer an invaluable gift of chemistry for the removal of the consequences.

HELMBOLD'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

For Weakness arising from excesses or early indiscretion, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, General Weakness, Horror of Death, Night Sweats, Cold Feet, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision Languor, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Often Enormous Appetite with Dyspeptic Symptoms, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Pallid Countenance and Eruptions on the Face, Pain in the Back, Heaviness of the Eyelids, Frequently Black Spots Flying before the Eyes, with Temporary Suffusion and Loss of Sight, Want of attention, Great Mobility, Restlessness, with Horror of Society. Nothing more desirable to such patients than Solitude, and nothing they more dread, for Fear of Themselves; no Repose of Manner, no Earnestness, no Speculation, but a hurried Transition from one question to another.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on—which this Medicine invariably removes—soon follow Loss of Power, Fatuity, and Epileptic Fits, in one of which the patient may expire.

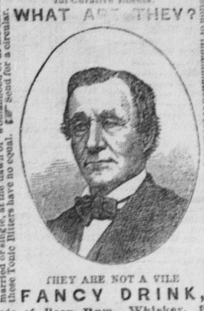
The Great Medical Discovery! Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS,

Hundreds of Thousands Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects

WHAT ARE THEY?



They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing the combined virtues of all the other well known and popular remedies, being the Great Blood Purifier and a perfect Restorative and Invigorating Principle, curing all diseases of the Liver, and all other Visceral Organs.

THEY ARE NOT A VILE FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to Direction and remain long unwell.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION. Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all Impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle.
